This evaluation does not imply hearing reading or comprehension and can therefore be used to measure the potential of students who have limited literacy skills or children with English as an additional language (EAL). By focusing on basic learning processes and reasoning skills rather than reading or mathematical knowledge, these non-verbal assessments provide effective indicators of future academic performance in certain subjects such as mathematics, science and design and technology. Their results, which are standardized by their age, give a clear indication of a student's skills and help inform strategies for teaching and setting individual goals. There are 21 types of questions set by the GL evaluation for the 11 Plus, although in some areas only the first 15 types will appear in the question paper. Our objective is to publish the latest information for each area, but the types of evidence are subject to change without notice by the authorities and therefore serve only as an approximate guide.
